Minsk is the capital of Belarus and the biggest city of the country with more than 2 million inhabitants. The first mention of the town of Minsk was in 1067, consequently it is older than many European cities like Moscow and Stockholm. The city was practically fully destroyed in the II World War and was rebuilt during the Soviet time. Nowadays Minsk is the cultural, educational, sports, political, scientific centre of the country. Its main sights and attractions include:

THE HOLY SPIRIT CATHEDRAL

The history of the Cathedral dates back to 1633-1642. It is a valuable monument of late Baroque style of Old Minsk. Six columns divide the inner room into three naves. The iconostasis has a number of marvelous icons including the Our Lady miracle-working icon that miraculously appeared on the Svisloch bank in 1500.

Address: Kirilla and Mefodiya Street, 3 (Nemiga)

THE NATIONAL ACADEMIC BOLSHOI OPERA AND BALLET THEATRE

It was opened in 1933. Nowadays there are more than 30 titles of dramatic works on the poster of the theatre, the most popular of them are Carmen, Eugene Onegin, Swan Lake, Rigoletto. All of them are well staged with rich decorations and costumes.

THE TROITSKOE SUBURB

This historical and cultural part of Minsk survived after the destroying II World War. Here you may admire the Svisloch River, walk down the cobbled streets and enjoy a cup of hot tea or coffee in one of the little cafes. It is a great and lovely place to walk and relax in any season of the year.

THE NATIONAL LIBRARY

It is the most significant tourist attraction and the main information and cultural centre of the country, as well as one of the most important and controversial projects in the modern Belarus. A 72-meter high, 23-storey building in the shape of a diamond symbolizes material and spiritual values gathered by the humanity during thousands of years.

The museum consists of 4 blocks – the number of war years – and has 10 exhibition halls and the Victory Hall (located under a glass dome).

Address: Pobeditelei Avenue, 8

THE VICTORY SQUARE

The Victory Square opened in 1954 is one of the main monuments dedicated to the Great Patriotic War. The Victory monument stands out in its size rising to the sky at more than 35 meters height, and at the top of it one can observe a 3-meter replica of the Order of Victory. There is also the eternal fire that burns in any weather, and on holidays there is a guard of honor near it.

THE RED CHURCH

The Red Church is a temple-memorial of the beginning of the XX century that nowadays is one of the Minsk symbols. The official name of the church is the Sts. Simon and Helena Church. It is because the cathedral was built to commemorate the premature death of two young children, Simon and Helena Wojnilowicz, of a Belarusian aristocratic family. It is known as the Red Church because of its red brick walls.

MINSK CITY GATES

The symbolical "City's Gates" are two identical 11-storeyed towers erected on the corners of five-floor apartment houses. On one of the towers there is the biggest clock in the republic – the diameter of the clock-face is more than 3.5 m. Thus the building is called "The time of Minsk". The other is named "Coat of arms of Belarus". Eight sculptures symbolizing a worker, a collective farmer, an engineer and a soldier have been put back for 30-meter height – four sculptures per each tower.
