

January 30, 2020

Bormio, Italy

Future stars set to shine in Bormio

The ISU World Junior Short Track Speed Skating Championships take place in Bormio, Italy from January 31 to February 2.

The event, which has been running since 1994, has often provided an excellent insight into the future of Short Track Speed Skating – with current champions such as Suzanne Schulting, Choi Min Joeng, Shaoang Liu and Lee June Seo making it on to the podium in recent years.

Who will light up the Ice Stadium Bormio?

As ever, it is hard to predict with such young athletes, but the Republic of Korea have sent a strong contingent.

Kim Geon Hee (KOR) and Jeon Yumin (KOR) are standout athletes in the Ladies' field, while Jang Sungwoo (KOR), Kim Taesung (KOR), Lee Joengmin (KOR) and Ahn Hyunjun (KOR) will all compete in the Men's.

Kim has already won a senior individual ISU World Cup Short Track Speed Skating title – at Almaty in 2018/19 – and she was part of the Ladies' Relay team who stormed to 3000m gold at the 2019 ISU World Short Track Speed Skating Championships in Sofia, Bulgaria.

Lee and Jang, meanwhile, come into the competition fresh from winning gold medals at the Lausanne 2020 Winter Youth Olympic Games. Jang took the 1000m title and Lee the 500m. Both look like fine prospects for future senior teams.

Jonathan So (USA) and Shogo Miyata (JPN) also dazzled in Switzerland, winning gold medals as part of Lausanne 2020's mixed-NOC, mixed-gender Relay event.

Yuliia Beresneva (RUS), Chang Hui (TPE) and Gabriel Volet (FRA) were part of the side that took the silver in that event and reunite in Bormio hoping to gain individual honours this time around. Zhang Tianyi (CHN) and Florence Brunelle (CAN) also picked up individual medals in Lausanne and will be ones to watch – along with Felix Pigeon (CAN) and Peter Jaszapati (HUN), the younger brother of Petra, who is making waves on the senior scene.

Last year's ISU World Junior Short Track Speed Skating Championships featured thrilling performances from Seo Whi Min (KOR) and Maame Biney (USA) – now firmly established on the senior circuit. It'll be fascinating to see who lays down a marker this time around.

Qualifying rounds take place on Friday January 31 with 1500m and 500m finals taking place on Saturday, February 1. The Ladies' and Men's 1000m races and 3000m Relays take place on Sunday, February 2.

Where to watch and follow the ISU World Junior Short Track Speed Skating Championships? The ISU will offer a live stream on the Skating ISU YouTube Channel.

Subscribe to the ISU Newsletter to receive the latest information. You can also subscribe to the Skating ISU YouTube Channel to receive notifications when live streams start or new videos are published.

Highlights, clips, interviews, behind the scenes: YouTube: ISU Skating IG: @isuspeedskating Facebook: @ISUShortTrackSpeedSkating Twitter: @ISU_Speed Follow the conversation with #ShortTrackSkating.

For further information on ISU Short Track Speed Skating visit: isu.org/short-track.

About the International Skating Union

The International Skating Union (ISU), founded in 1892, is the oldest governing international winter sport federation and the exclusive international sport federation recognized by the International Olympic Committee (IOC) administering the sports of Figure Skating (Single & Pair Skating and Ice Dance), Synchronized Skating, Speed Skating and Short Track Speed Skating worldwide. The objectives of the ISU are to regulate, govern, promote and develop its sports on the basis of friendship and mutual understanding between athletes. Currently three ISU disciplines are included in the Olympic Winter Games program (Figure Skating, Speed Skating and Short Track Speed Skating and Short Track Speed Skating). For further information please visit isu.org.